

Frequently Asked Questions

What is an online virtual public involvement (VPI) meeting?

VPI meetings are web-based sessions (online meetings) that allow agencies to engage the public more effectively by replacing traditional face-to-face information sharing with technology. Innovative VPI techniques will provide the City of Bryant with a platform to inform the public and receive feedback. Additionally, this Virtual Location and Design Public Hearing satisfies NEPA requirements by providing the public opportunity to comment on the Preferred Alternative and EA findings.

What is an interactive map?

An interactive map is easy to use. Interactive mapping involves using maps that allow zooming in and out, panning around, and identifying specific features. The project interactive map will allow exploration of the project area, the ability to find a particular location by address or panning around, the ability to zoom in and out, and the option to change the type of base map you are viewing.
